Kroenke's New Groove

On Tuesday, January 12, the National Football League owners voted to move the Rams to Los Angeles, California. This move has sparked outrage among St. Louis fans, most of whom attribute the relocation to the fault of Rams' owner, Stan Kroenke. Kroenke has claimed the football team's move is mostly due to the poor attendance at games, though in the past he has also outrightly expressed his dislike of St. Louis. People of the city continue to protest against the move, along with many political leaders for St. Louis, including city mayor, Francis Slay. "I'm so frustrated and disappointed with the NFL," Slay said during a recent interview, and he is not the only one to feel this way. St. Louis will certainly have its eye on the Rams' performance in the games next season, and after this difficult move, many just might be rooting for the other teams.

Netflix Pick of the Week

"Wayne's World" is a very funny movie, following the adventures of Wayne Campbell (Mike Myers) and his best friend, Garth Algar (Dana Carvey). This movie, which is a spinoff of an SNL skit, portrays how Wayne's show evolves from his basement to a studio. As the film progresses, Wayne's love for Cassandra grows, as well as a new white electric guitar he wants. Wayne and Garth's misadventures lead them attempt to take their show back from an evil business man (Rob Lowe). This movie earned an 85% on Rotten Tomatoes, a hilarious movie overall, though it is lacking in a strong plot.

Mr. Schneider on his Position as New Boy's Golf Coach

Mr. Schneider has recently accepted the job as coach for the Duchesne Boy's Golf team. He took the coaching job saying that he wanted to coach again and thought this would be a great opportunity to get involved with athletics at Duchesne. Mr. Schneider said his background with golfing is "strictly recreational." He plans on making the team the best they could be by "motivating the players and work on their game in the off season instead of just during school season" and "generate general interest in the golf program, which will create more competition within the team." All in all, we can't wait to see what Coach Schneider has in store for this season.

TO BE HONEST

1. Jordan Spieth just bought a new mega mansion for 7.1 million dollars. Maybe he should have use some of that money to make his own golf brand so he doesn't have to switch golf brands every two tournaments.

2. A 27 pound house cat was mistaken for a wild cat. It turns out this cat is more destructive than baby lions, breaking tables and glasses as it tries to jump on tables.

3. What can't Jamie Foxx do? He sings, he acts and he saves people from burning cars.
