ProLife March

This week was supposed to be the March for Life in Washington D.C., the 42nd anniversary of the Roe vs. Wade decision in 1973 legalizing abortion. However, due to a massive storm leading to 1-2 feet of snow, the event was canceled. There was, however, a March for Life in Missouri last Saturday, and some Pioneers went down and marched in the successful make-up event. "I think it had an effect of making it more direct where we went to planned parenthood instead of the capital, where the abortion crisis is happening," said Andrew Sweeso, a junior Pioneer who went and marched. Abortion has killed over 54 million babies since the Roe vs. Wade law was implemented, and that number will continue to grow until we can convince congress to change it. As of now, America is split between pro-life and pro-choice, so there's work to be done.

Pioneer Pete's Netflix Pick of the Week

Think you've mastered playing hooky? Think again. This 1986 film takes skipping school to a whole different level. The main character, Ferris Bueller (Matthew Broderick) accidentally convinces his town that he is slowly dying, while he is out having the time of his life. Ferris, along with his girl friend, Sloane (Mia Sara), and best friend, Cameron (Alan Ruck) go downtown for a day of fun. The three of them don't have a care in the world. At school the dean of students, along with Ferris' sister, is trying to get to the bottom of Ferris' games. This film will give viewers a good laugh, along with the enjoyable suspense of Ferris returning home before his parents come home.

To Be Honest...

1. Blake Griffin broke his hand after punching the Clippers equipment manager. Next time Blake Griffin tries to sell you a Kia, you accept.
2. Mattel announced that they are releasing Barbie dolls in curvy, tall, and petite sizes, "offering girls choices that are more reflective of the world they see today." Yes, the world today, with the hip new trend of diversity.
3. Rihanna's new song, "Work," hit the airwaves this week. The song contains the word "work" 83 times. Maybe she should work on some better material.
4. In her new commercial for Weight Watchers, Oprah Winfrey shared how she managed to lose 26 pounds and still eat bread everyday. Perhaps what is more remarkable is that she is not experiencing any self-loafing with her decisions and that her diet isn't complete toast.
