

Philippine loved to learn. She would even sneak in and listen to the boys having their lessons. Philippine especially loved the stories told by the French missionary priests.