

At last they arrived in America. Philippine was so happy to be off the ship that she kissed the ground. After resting in Louisiana, Philippine and her companions boarded a boat that would carry them up the Mississippi River to St. Louis.